

Mirror on Main Street

Aigh come from a place called Eden; it's migh point of origin. Aigh dwelled on Main Street in a house that was built in 1872. In this house, a mirror hung at the end of the hall reflecting on all who passed.

One hundred years worth of spirits had come and gone before this mirror. Aigh was thirteen when Aigh first reflected on it; it saw me coming a long way off. Aigh saw migh selves in the eyes of all those who passed before, the first time Aigh looked into the looking glass of migh - self.

Migh image has never looked the same twice for Aigh am the essence of change. That was the first knowing that found me on the other side of the mirror. Aigh have learned much more over time.

As Aigh gaze into migh Mirror on Main Street Aigh manifest the dream of migh reality. Ever the daydreamer, Aigh sense migh way to "what is."

It queried on how I got to where Aigh am, Aigh would have to say—the journey for me was the path from the realm of "I know" through the valley of "I don't know" to the peace of "not knowing...". The path wasn't hard to find, it was at the tip of migh nose. The question was, Did Aigh have the faith and courage to venture forth?

Today as Aigh write this, Aigh reflect into the Mirror on Main Street and see all that I was, all that Aigh am and all that Aigh may be and Aigh am at peace, for Aigh've been through the image of migh-self to nothing.

Aigh don't claim to know nothing; Aigh can just tell you a whole lot about it...

It's "what's next." Imagine that...

Peace and Courage to all beings of the realm
